Fletcher MacNeill Joins Environetics to Lead Healthcare Practice

Environetics is proud to announce the addition of Fletcher H. MacNeill, AIA, LEED AP to the team as Principal, Healthcare Practice Leader. Fletcher offers over 27 years of experience in planning and designing hospitals and specialty healthcare facilities. In addition to his core focus on healthcare facilities, he is working to lead and define the emerging interdisciplinary specialty in Health Science Education, planning and designing for medical schools, clinical skills teaching and simulation labs.

Previously with Ewing Cole and Burt Hill, Fletcher is a practice leader and client advocate who builds consensus among the many constituents of complex organizations. As a thought leader, he shapes the direction of the healthcare professional practice, mentors staff and participates in management.

“We are thrilled to have Fletcher join Environetics. He brings to the firm a wealth of knowledge and expertise that complements our team,” says William Westhafer, President.

The addition of Fletcher to the Environetics team, strengthens the firm’s healthcare expertise, complimenting recent project experience with such clients as Kennedy Health System, Thomas Jefferson University Hospital, and University Medical Center of Princeton.
